

Blackpool to Fleetwood and back via Bispham and Cleveleys

On a windy, dull day I walked from Blackpool to Fleetwood, to the ferry port that connects Fleetwood with Knot End at the opposite end of the river Wyre. At first I walked along the promenade until I reached Cleveleys and had to join the main road because building work was being carried out. I carried on until I reached the boating lake in Fleetwood and saw what looked like del boy's 3 wheeled van. Then I walked along the coast until I reached the ferry port before returning back to Blackpool. I walked about 20 miles that day and thankfully it didn't rain because it was dull all day. I went a slightly different route coming back, following the tram route.
